

'Gold Rush'

This F1 hybrid, standard zucchini-type cultivar produces golden-yellow fruits with green stems that look good both in the garden and on the plate. The striking color makes them easy to spot. For best taste, the fruits should be picked before they get too large.

suitable for containers

early to late spring

poor resistance

not hardy

midsummer to early fall

'Yellow Scallopini'

A patty-pan-type, this F1 hybrid cultivar is resistant to powdery mildew. It produces early and prolific crops of saucer-shaped fruits with scalloped edges. They are golden-yellow with a green disk at the blossom end. Harvest when 1.5–3 in (4–7.5 cm) across.

suitable for containers

early to late spring

some resistance

not hardy

midsummer to early fall

'Magda'

A club-shaped zucchini-type, this F1 hybrid cultivar produces creamy-green fruits with white flesh. They are best picked when small, at around 3–4 in (7.5–10 cm). At this size, they are very tender and are perfect for Middle Eastern cooking.

suitable for containers

early to late spring

poor resistance

not hardy

midsummer to early fall