

'Becky'

This 'F1' hybrid cultivar produces small, attractive-looking pumpkins that are ideal for use as decoration. They have smooth, lightly ribbed, yellow-orange skin and light orange flesh. In addition to being decorative, they are a handy size for cooking whole.

-  unsuitable for containers
-  early to late spring
-  poor resistance
-  not hardy
-  late summer to mid-fall

'Atlantic Giant'

This is the cultivar to grow if you want to produce a record breaker: it is the current world record holder for the heaviest pumpkin. It can produce vast, oval-shaped specimens without any special treatment, but the flavor is bland.

-  unsuitable for containers
-  early to late spring
-  poor resistance
-  not hardy
-  late summer to mid-fall