

GANDHI AND THE RAILWAYS

Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi boarded a train for the first time in January 1888 when he travelled from Rajkot to Bhavnagar in Gujarat. Over the course of the freedom movement, his relationship with the railways in India swung from one end of the spectrum to the other – from critiquing the railways as the colonizers' means of spreading social disparity to using the trains as a tool for reaching the masses to spread his message.