

“Everywhere, in every direction, the wanderer comes up against rail-road track, meandering about like a colossal centipede. Yet there is romance and legend, too, amidst the dust and smoke.”

JOHN W MITCHELL, ASSISTANT TRAFFIC SUPERINTENDENT OF THE BENGAL–NAGPUR RAILWAY, IN HIS MEMOIR THE WHEELS OF IND (1934)