

▲ In a desperate attempt to cross the borders, refugees travelled however they could – in compartments, hanging from the engines, or even on the roof. Seen here is the Amritsar railway station in Punjab, on the border of India and Pakistan, packed with trains overflowing with refugees, in October 1947.