

centres, staff institutions, a central hospital, a technical training school, and a vocational training centre.

Today, the CLW, a symbol of a self-reliant, industrial India, has become one of the largest manufacturers of modern, high-powered electric locomotives.

A postage stamp illustrating an engine being serviced at the CLW was issued in the year 1955.