

communications in hostile territory during wars. From repairing lines in conflict zones or providing supplies to the armed forces during wartime, the Indian Railways and its army have been at the frontlines for all conflicts since then.

The Globe and Mail
122nd Year, No. 26,222 METRO TORONTO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1965 40 PAGES TEN CENTS

No Declaration, But Ayub Khan and Shastri Call It War
INDIAN TROOPS INVADE PAKISTAN

Paratroops in Punjab, New Delhi Claims; Lahore Area Shelled

160 Miles Behind Lines

U Thant Will Fly to Both Capitals To Try to End Fight Over Kashmir

Hope Fades for Mediation by Pearson

Million-Dollar Midway

Wage Talks Break Down
600 Chateau Frontenac Workers Walk Off Jobs

Betsy Belts Into Bahamas, Winds Hit Up to 147 mph

Per Python On the Loose At Fort Worth

Canadian Death Toll For Holiday Hits 88

Horton Drive-In Hit by Bomb, Police Believe

162 Appear On

As Indian paratroops landed in Punjab, Pakistanis shelled Lahore area, India claims. The Indian army said it had landed 160 miles behind the front line in Punjab, Pakistan, and that it was fighting a conventional war. The Indian army also said it had shelled Lahore, Pakistan, and that it was fighting a conventional war.

U Thant Will Fly to Both Capitals To Try to End Fight Over Kashmir

Hope Fades for Mediation by Pearson

Million-Dollar Midway

Wage Talks Break Down
600 Chateau Frontenac Workers Walk Off Jobs

Betsy Belts Into Bahamas, Winds Hit Up to 147 mph

Per Python On the Loose At Fort Worth

Canadian Death Toll For Holiday Hits 88

Horton Drive-In Hit by Bomb, Police Believe

162 Appear On

▲ Following Pakistani incursions into Indian Kashmir in 1965, India declared war on 6 September. Seen here is the front page of the Canadian newspaper Globe and Mail, dated 7 September 1965.

Fighting Pakistan in 1965