

▲ Railway engineers ensured vital supplies of food, water, and ammunition during the military confrontation between India and Pakistan during the 1971 war.

“The desert has no place to take cover, so we lay motionless (a hundred of us) waiting for the worst, but the bullets missed us by a few inches. What saved us was a single anti-aircraft gun we had mounted on the train as a last minute innovation.”

LT COL (RETD) ML KHANNA, COMMANDING OFFICER, 1033 RAILWAY ENGINEERS
(TERRITORIAL ARMY) ON HIS EXPERIENCES DURING THE 1971 INDO-PAKISTAN WAR