

While consolidating its services, the IRCTC has never shied away from inventing and reinventing its business model and has actively encouraged private and public partnership in order to expand its reach. For instance, milk and milk products are purchased from dairy units in the cooperative sector and IRCTC has even collaborated with global food chains, private restaurants, and online ordering platforms.

One of the most important projects in this area has been the creation of the brand “Rail Neer”, to provide clean, hygienic potable water to all passengers. Prior to its introduction, most passengers struggled to easily access clean drinking water. The IRCTC solved that problem of availability and took on the entire cost of the project, without placing any additional strain on railways’ finances. Today, its plants produce over 11,00,000 bottles per day.
