INDEX

Volume 3 contains an index and a gazetteer. The index, which comes first, lists all the topics mentioned in the encyclopedia and the pages on which they can be found. The gazetteer follows on, with references to help you find all the features included on the maps.

- page numbers in bold type (eg Knights and heraldry 495-6) show that the subject is a main A–Z entry in Volumes 1–2.
- page numbers in plain type (eg armour 69) send you to sub-entries, text references, and the reference section.
- grid references (eg Cremona Italy 475 C3) are letter-number combinations that locate features on maps.

Running head

There is an A–Z running head at the top of most pages to help you find important topics that are not main entries within the encyclopedia.

Illustrations

Each main entry is heavily illustrated with models, photographs, and artworks, adding a vibrant layer of visual information to the page.

Annotation

The illustrations are comprehensively annotated to draw attention to details of particular interest and to explain complex points.

This annotation tells you how different colours can be produced by mixing red, green, and blue light.

The running head on PRINTING tells you that although there is no main entry on primates, you can find the topic on MONKEYS AND OTHER PRIMATES.

Timelines

An entry may include a timeline that gives the dates of key events in the history or development of the subject.

The PRINTING timeline stretches from the printing of the first books in ancient China to the computerization of modern printing.

COLLECTION PAGES

There are more than 70 pages of photographic collections, which follow main entries and provide a visual guide to the subject. They are organized under clear headings.

Find out more

The Find Out More lines at the end of each entry direct you to other relevant main entries in the encyclopedia. Using the Find Out More lines can help you understand an entry in its wider context.

On COLOUR, the Find Out More line directs you to the entry on PRINTING, where there is a detailed explanation of the colour printing process and how printing presses work.

The PRINTING'S Find Out More line sends you to CHINA, HISTORY OF, which lists ancient Chinese inventions, including printing.

The entry on the history of China is followed by a collection page showing Chinese jewellery and ornaments.
