

Cats

Long-haired

Long silky fur

Turkish van (auburn) has a chalky white coat.

Flatish, round face

Persian longhair (blue) has a short, bushy tail.

M-shaped tabby marking

Birman (seal tabby point) has pure white paws.

Matching mittens

Somali (sorrel) was bred from the Abyssinian.

Ragdoll (blue mitted) goes limp when it is stroked.

Tufted ears

Turkish angora (blue-cream) has fine, silky fur.

Balinese (blue tabby point) has a long, well-plumed tail.

Javanese (cinnamon) is graceful and lithe – a typical Oriental cat.

Longer fur forms a ruff.

Somali (silver) has ticking (bands of colour) on each hair.

Maine coon (brown classic tabby) is a large, hardy cat.

Colour pointed longhair (chocolate point) has thick fur.

Short-haired

Crimped coarse fur feels like lamb's wool.

American wirehair (brown mackerel tabby) is active.

Burmese (chocolate) has glossy fur with a satin feel.

Ears are folded forward and downward.

Scottish fold (tortie and white) has folded ears.

Massive round head on a thick neck

Exotic (blue) is playful and affectionate.

Thick undercoat with longer top coat

Manx (red classic tabby) is bred to have no tail.

Widely spaced ears with rounded tips

American shorthair (silver classic tabby) has thick fur.

Muscular body

Korat (blue) is a playful cat. It has close-lying fur.

10-cm- (4-in-) long inflexible tail

Japanese bobtail (red and white) is usually patterned.

Dorsal stripe

Egyptian mau (silver) has a spotted coat.

Colour gets darker with age.

Siamese (seal point) has an angular face and large ears.

California spangled (gold) has well-defined spots.

Small rounded ears and rounded head

Colour pointed British shorthair (cream point).

Oriental shorthair (foreign red) is a sleek, slender cat with fine glossy fur.

British shorthair (chocolate) has a solid build with a round face and short nose.

Flat skull and large ears

Cornish rex (cinnamon silver) has a short wavy coat, patterned over the whole body.

Chartreux (blue-grey) is an old French breed. All Chartreux are this colour.

Tonkinese (cream) is a Burmese and Siamese cross. It is active and affectionate.

Large pricked ears

Abyssinian (usual) is an elegant cat, and looks similar to the cats of ancient Egypt.

Coat has a silvery sheen.

Russian shorthair (blue) has a graceful, long body with thick, fine fur.

Oriental shorthair (Havana) was developed from a chocolate point Siamese.