

Arms and Armour

Helmets

African ceremonial and battle helmet

Close helmet, for use in tournaments, France, 1575

Celtic Bronze helmet, Britain, 1st century AD

Burgonet, an open-faced blackened-steel helmet, 1590

Italian close helmet, with air vents, 16th century

Morian, the helmet of the Knights of Malta

Italian close helmet, for use in tournaments, 1570

German armet, a helmet with cheek plates, 1535

Gilded close helmet, for use in tournaments, 1555

German burgonet, for use in parades, 1520

Corinthian type Greek helmet, 7th century BC

Breastplates

Cuirass, or breastplate, from the Napoleonic Wars

Steel breastplate "blackened" to withstand rust.

Indian cuirass, or charania ("four mirrors")

Breastplate, specially made for a wealthy boy

Gorget, or neck defence

Italian breastplate, made to imitate the doublet, 1570

African breastplate, for Fulani cavalryman

Italian cuirass, with skirt and tassets to protect abdomen and thighs

Gauntlets, greaves, and sabatons

Gauntlet, with hinged thumb plate, Germany 1515

Samurai armoured sleeves, or kote, were laced over the arm.

Indian arm guard, with an extension to protect the hand

Greaves

Sabatons

Left hand carried mace

Gauntlets were riveted on to leather gloves, Italy, late 1300s

Steel mace, c.1520

Pointed cuff

Italian gauntlets, to protect the hands

German gauntlet, with jointed steel plates attached to a single plate

Greaves and sabatons, for protecting the legs and feet

Manifer, made to fit over the left gauntlet

Gothic gauntlet, 15th-century Germany

Sabatons, or foot armour, jointed for maximum movement, c.1550