

THE EUROPEAN AND ISLAMIC RENAISSANCE 800–1542

Classical knowledge was revived and expanded by Islamic scholars attached to the mosques and the courts. Subsequently translated into Latin, their Arabic texts circulated through Western Europe and formed the basis of modern science.