

CAROL VORDERMAN MBE is one of Britain's best-loved TV presenters and is renowned for her mathematical skills. She has hosted numerous TV shows on science and technology, from Tomorrow's World to How 2, and was co-host of Channel 4's Countdown for 26 years. A Cambridge University engineering graduate, she has a passion for communicating science and technology and has a keen interest in coding.

CRAIG STEELE is a specialist in Computing Science education. He is Project Manager for CoderDojo Scotland, which runs free coding clubs for young people. Craig has previously worked for the Raspberry Pi Foundation, Glasgow Science Centre, and the BBC micro:bit project. Craig's first computer was a ZX Spectrum.

DR CLAIRE QUIGLEY studied Computing Science at Glasgow University, where she obtained a BSc and PhD. She has worked in the Computer Laboratory at Cambridge University and Glasgow Science Centre, and is currently working on a project to develop a music and technology resource for primary schools in Edinburgh. She is a mentor at CoderDojo Scotland.

DR MARTIN GOODFELLOW has a PhD in computer science and experience of teaching coding up to university level. He has developed educational content and workshops for CoderDojo Scotland, Skills Development Scotland, Glasgow Life, and Highlands and Islands Enterprises, and has consulted on digital content for the BBC. He is currently the Scottish Ambassador for National Coding Week.

DANIEL McCAFFERTY holds a degree in Computer Science from the University of Strathclyde. He has worked as a software engineer for companies big and small in industries from banking to broadcasting. Daniel lives in Glasgow with his wife and daughter and when not teaching young people to code, he enjoys cycling and spending time with family.

DR JON WOODCOCK studied physics at Oxford University and computational astrophysics at the University of London. An avid coder since the age of eight, he has programmed all kinds of computers from single-chip microcontrollers to world-class supercomputers. He is author of DK's bestselling Computer Coding Games for Kids and has written or contributed to six other DK coding books.
