

2

RULERS AND HIERARCHIES

3000–700 BCE

As humans began to band together in organized communities, more structured societies emerged. They began to develop greater powers of communication, create complex belief systems, and form cultured urban civilizations, particularly in the Middle East, India, Europe, China, and Central and South America.