

SUMO WRESTLING ►

While sumo wrestling had existed for more than 1,000 years, its popularity soared during the Edo period. Tournaments were originally organized by temples that built huge temporary stadiums to host large crowds. It is now Japan's national sport.

► SKILLED ENTERTAINERS

Geishas are female performers who go through strict training to become skilled in a number of art forms, including dancing, singing, and poetry. Known for their traditional costumes and eye-catching white makeup, geishas still perform today.

EDO CRAFTS

NETSUKE

The Edo period saw a boom in craftwork such as imari porcelain, which featured delicate decorations. Also popular were small cases known as inro, which were worn around the waist of a kimono (robe), and miniature sculptures called netsuke.

IMARI

Shiny black lacquer
Flower decoration

INRO