NEED TO KNOW

- › Broad targeting means aiming toward a mass audience.
- › Cookies are files placed on a website user's computer, used to track returning visitors
- › Data management platforms are software tools that track website visitors with cookies and pull together a profile of customer demographics and habits.
- › Keyword targeting is using keywords relating to your product to improve your ranking in search engine results.
- › Narrow targeting, also called interest group targeting, is seeking a specific group of consumers.

CONTENT

Generate interesting content and keep it fresh, updating it as often as possible. It will not only be useful to your customers but will also boost your search ranking. Also post content on other sites, such as YouTube, that will link to yours.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Create a profile for your business on the main social media platforms, and post when you know your audience is active or online. Offer further content that can be accessed via a link to your website (see pp.140–141).

MARKETING

Build a customer database and ask permission from your customers to send them marketing information. Then run an email marketing campaign with an offer, including a link to your website.

ADVERTISING

Try pay-per-click social media advertising in different channels, targeting customers by age, location, or other criteria (see pp. 138–139). Monitor and then adjust keywords and targeting. Display your web address offline, on business cards, storefronts, or vehicles.
