

Thor attacked Jörmungandr, his age-old rival. Long they fought as carnage raged around them. The World Serpent lunged and swiped with his tail, but the mighty Thor dodged every blow. The great beast spewed venom at Thor, who took nine paces before falling dead to the ground.

So much blood drained into the earth that it sank into the sea, leaving nothing behind.

This is the end for the Aesir – it's as if they'd never existed at all. Some say a new land will emerge, and two humans called Líf and Lífþrasir will populate it with their children. Who knows, perhaps they will.