

GODDESS OF THE EARTH AND CROPS

One of the loveliest of the Aesir goddesses, Sif is blessed with radiant beauty. She is the goddess of fertility and farming. Her hair is long and shines gold like a wheatfield in sunlight. Sif is married to Thor, and her name means “marriage”.

PARENTS: Unknown

CHILDREN: Thrud, Módi, Ullr

SACRED SYMBOLS

WHEAT

As the goddess of farming, Sif is linked with all crops, and especially wheat.

FAMILY

As a wife and mother, Sif is associated with family life.

EARTH

Sif is goddess of the earth and of nature and growth.

CRYSTAL GOBLET

In an ancient poem, Sif pours mead from a crystal goblet for Loki.

MYSTERIOUS SIF

Despite being placed at the highest level of the Aesir pantheon (group of gods), Sif is something of a mystery. The most well-known tale tells of her being preyed upon by the trickster god Loki, who cut off her famed golden tresses.

