

FREYA

GODDESS OF LOVE AND MAGIC

Freya is a goddess of the Vanir tribe. She is associated with love, beauty, fertility and magic. She rules over a place in the afterlife – a meadow called Fólkvangr. Half of all warriors who die in battle go here – the rest stay with Odin in Valhalla.

PARENTS: Njord and, possibly, Nerthus

CHILDREN: Hnoss and Gersemi

SACRED SYMBOLS

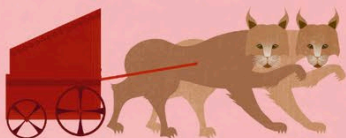

BRISINGAMEN

This necklace is Freya's most prized possession. It was made by the dwarfs to glow with a fiery light.

FALCON FEATHERS

Freya owns a cloak made from falcon feathers that gives the wearer the ability to fly.

CHARIOT

Freya speeds from place to place in a chariot pulled by two cats.

HILDISVÍNI

Freya sometimes rides a giant boar whose name means "battle-swine".

THE ENCHANTRESS

Freya is well-practised in the magical arts – called seidr. She teaches Odin spells and potions, and how to see into the future. Close to nature, Freya has animal-familiars (fylgja), including the boar, Hildisvíni. These help or guide her.
