

GOD OF PEACE AND FERTILITY

A much-loved god, Freyr began as a member of the Vanir tribe before being adopted by the Aesir. He is the brother of Freya, and the deity of fertility, peace, sunshine and rain. Freyr lives in Alfheim, home of the elves, and is married to the giant Gerð.

PARENTS: Njord and, possibly, Nerthus

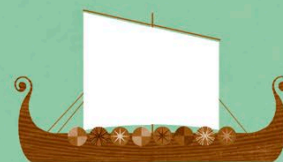

CHILDREN: Fjölfnir

SACRED SYMBOLS

GULLINBURSTI

Freyr's fleet-footed animal-familiar is the shining golden-bristled boar made by Eitri and Brokkr.

SKIDBLADNIR

Freyr's ship is incredible in many ways — not least because it can be folded up and stored in a bag.

SWORD

Freyr owns a magical sword that has the ability to fight by itself.

CHARIOT

On land, Freyr travels around in a chariot pulled by a pair of boars.

SWORD-FIGHTER

Freyr gives up his amazing self-fighting sword in return for marrying the giantess Gerð. This decision has terrible consequences, because without his sword Freyr is destined to die at Ragnarök, fighting the giant Surtr.

