

SHRUB LARGE

Philadelphus 'Virginal'

MOCK ORANGE This large upright shrub has oval dark green leaves and highly fragrant, double white flowers from early- to midsummer. Very hardy and wind-resistant, this shrub creates shelter in exposed gardens at the back of a bed.

↑10ft (3m) ↔8ft (2.5m)

☀ Z5–8

TREE LARGE

Picea breweriana

BREWER'S SPRUCE This cone-shaped evergreen conifer has drooping stems covered with dark gray-green needles. Female cones are red-brown. Thrives with some shade and shelter from wind; makes a striking lawn specimen.

↑50ft (15m) ↔12ft (4m)

☀ pH Z5–6 (N)

TREE LARGE

Picea pungens 'Koster'

COLORADO SPRUCE An evergreen conifer with stiff, silvery blue needlelike foliage and gray scaly bark. Upright cones form toward the ends of the branches on mature plants. Ideal for a cold garden, in neutral to acidic soil. Good in all but wet soils.

↑50ft (15m) ↔15ft (5m)

☀ pH Z2–7 (N)

TREE MEDIUM

Pseudotsuga menziesii* var. *glauca

BLUE DOUGLAS FIR This evergreen conifer, with dark green needles, makes a columnar tree, topped by a spreading crown. Younger plants are compact and conical. Ideal for exposed sites.

↑↔30ft (10m)

☀ Z4–6 (N)

TREE LARGE

Quercus robur f. fastigiata

ENGLISH OAK This deciduous tree has a flame-shaped profile with lobed green leaves and fall acorns. Slow-growing and cold-tolerant, use it as a lawn specimen in larger gardens. Considered invasive in some Northeast and Northwest areas in US.

↑↔50ft (15m)

☀ Z5–8

TREE LARGE

Pinus nigra

AUSTRIAN PINE When mature, this is a large domed-headed evergreen tree with long, dark green needles and yellow-brown cones. It can be planted as a windbreak, and will tolerate coastal sites. It is best grown on larger plots.

↑100ft (30m) ↔25ft (8m)

☀ Z4–7

SHRUB SMALL

Potentilla fruticosa

CINQUEFOIL This cold- and wind-tolerant shrub has divided dark to gray-green leaves. Small yellow, white, pink, orange, and red flowers open from summer to fall. Varieties include the yellow-flowered 'Goldfinger' (above).

↑3ft (1m) ↔5ft (1.5m)

☀ Z2–7 (N)

SHRUB SMALL

Rosmarinus officinalis

ROSEMARY An wind-tolerant, aromatic evergreen, subshrub with dark green needlelike leaves and small blue, pink, or white blooms from spring to early summer. Prostratus Group (above) will cascade over walls.

↑6in (15cm) ↔5ft (1.5m)

☀ Z8–11