

Head lettuces Known as iceberg lettuces, these plants develop a solid heart of firm, rounded, densely packed pale leaves. These are the traditional summer lettuces.

Arugula Short plants produce dark green oval or divided leaves with a peppery flavor and edible flowers. Grow it as a “cut-and-come-again” crop or as “microgreens.” Sow seeds regularly.

Mustard greens These hardy plants develop loose leaves, often red-tinged, with a peppery flavor that intensifies as the plants mature. Harvest the leaves individually when required.