BAMBOO LARGE

Phyllostachys bambusoides

JAPANESE TIMBER BAMBOO This large bamboo, with its green or yellow canes and lush foliage, lends height to a scheme, and is a perfect plant to add an Asian note to a gravel garden. Alternatively, grow it as a screen.

↑ 25ft (8m) ↔ indefinite

☀️ ⚡️ Z7–10

BAMBOO LARGE

Phyllostachys nigra

BLACK BAMBOO A clump-forming evergreen bamboo with greenish brown grooved stems that turn black when mature, and long narrow leaves. Grow it as a screen or as a focal point in a stroll or tea garden.

↑ 25ft (8m) ↔ indefinite

BAMBOO LARGE

Semiarundinaria fastuosa

NARIHIRA BAMBOO This large, vigorous bamboo produces clumps of dark green canes and dark green lance-shaped leaves, which are gray-green beneath. Plant it in a gravel garden in groves or in a line as a screen.

↑ 20ft (6m) ↔ indefinite

☀️ ⚡️ ⚠️ Z6–9

SHRUB SMALL

Pinus mugo

MUGO PINE This compact evergreen conifer will create a mound of needlelike dark green leaves. Pines are prized in Japan for their scaly bark and elegant forms. Set this plant among boulders in a gravel garden.

↑ 3ft (1m) ↔ 6ft (2m)

☀️ ⚡️ Z2–7

TREE LARGE

Prunus x yedoensis

YOSHINO CHERRY This spreading deciduous tree often takes center stage in Japanese gardens, and is revered for its abundance of almond-scented blush white spring blossom. It also has dark red fruits in summer and yellow fall leaf color.

↑ 50ft (15m) ↔ 30ft (10m)

☀️ ⚡️ Z5–8

SHRUB SMALL

Sarcococca humilis

SWEET BOX A clump-forming evergreen shrub with tiny white fragrant winter flowers and glossy dark green foliage, which can be clipped into a sphere and used in a gravel garden. Black berries appear after the blooms.
