

PLANTS for SEASONAL INTEREST

By selecting plants that perform at different times of the year, you can ensure there is never a dull moment in your garden, even in the depths of winter. The key is to plan ahead and plant a few stars for each season, such as bulbs and blossoming trees in spring, flowering perennials for early and late summer color, and berried shrubs and blazing foliage plants that perform in fall. Also include evergreens and plants that bloom during the darkest days of the year to brighten up winter scenes.

