

The mighty elephant

Elephants are the largest land animals on Earth – the biggest one ever found weighed as much as 150 men! There are two main types of elephant, the African and the Asian.

Living in herds

African elephants live in groups called herds. However, only females and youngsters live together, males live on their own. A family usually contains about 8-10 elephants.

Elephants' tusks are very big upper teeth.

African elephants

African elephants flap their enormous ears to keep themselves cool in the hot sun.

Playtime!

Baby elephants love to play, which is an important part of growing up in a herd. They chase one another, throw sticks, and climb all over each other.
