

Picture detective

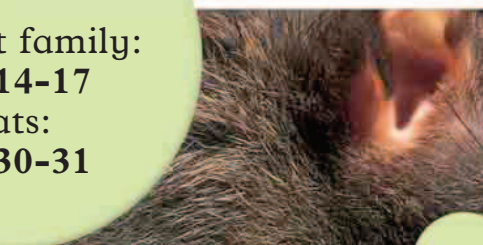

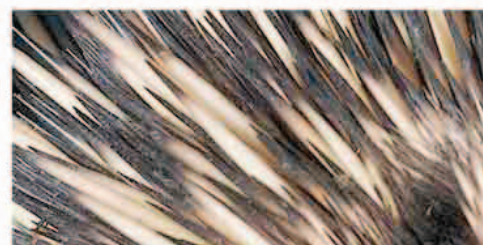

Take a look through the Mammals section and see if you can spot who these hairy skins belong to.

Long-eared bats

Two-toed sloth

Pipistrelle bat

Junior mammals

Mammal babies look like little versions of their parents. They are all looked after by their mothers or both parents until they can feed and look after themselves.

Baby tiger

Baby red-necked wallaby

Turn and learn

The cat family:
pp. 14-17
Bats:
pp. 30-31