

8 Brush the foreground with a clean, wet brush, then paint a mix of sap green and burnt sienna onto the wet paper. While the paint is still wet, add strokes of emerald green and burnt sienna for the grass in the foreground.

9 Drop clean water onto the foreground to create backrun effects that add interest to the grass. While the paint is still wet, add dashes of alizarin crimson for some local color.

10 Continue adding detail, using French ultramarine for the shadows on the grass and burnt sienna on the rocks. Mix sap green and cerulean blue to paint the shadows that help to define the cliffs.
