

Breakfast positioning map

The positioning of the various breakfast foods has been determined by the speed at which the food is prepared, measured from slowest to fastest, and the price of each food type, from the least expensive to the most expensive.

"Positioning is not what you do to a product. (It) is what you do to the mind of the prospect."

Al Ries and Jack Trout