

Customer retention

Existing customers help businesses generate the majority of profit and growth through making additional sales and referrals, and so retaining these customers is a high priority for marketers.

