

WHO USES THE DATA WAREHOUSE?

The key departments of a company can access the data warehouse to find out how they are performing. The method in which the data is formatted and stored makes it possible for them to seek answers to questions relevant to them. Typical questions various departments might ask include:

Storing data

The data is stored in three sections: metadata, summary data, and raw data.

