32%

of an item's original product value could be reclaimed as a result of a well-managed reverse logistics system

Transport

Customers expect items to be transported back to the seller in a straightforward system, in person or by a delivery service.

Receive

Effective inventory management is critical to ensure that inbound items are recorded so the company can keep track of returns.

Sort

Items and components are sorted and separated, ready for reselling, recycling, or disposal.

Inspect

Items are carefully checked on return. If they are to be resold, they must be in pristine condition.
