

KEY

1 Lion-headed Pazuzu grips the plaque with his claws.

2 Protective deities, with lion heads, form a two-row procession.

3 Pazuzu drives off Lamashtu.

◀ Protective plaque

This plaque depicts Pazuzu, king of the wind demons and lord of the southwest winds from the desert, which brought famine and locusts. It was crafted to provide protection from Pazuzu himself and to co-opt his aid in driving away another demon, Lamashtu.
